MESL Research

Working with members of the public to identify the cost of a socially acceptable Minimum Essential Standard of Living.

- The minimum needed for people to live with dignity and participate in the day-to-day life of society
- Meets physical, psychological & social needs
- A level no-one should be expected to live below
- Deliberative Focus Groups, over multiple stages, work to agree what is needed to live at a minimum acceptable standard
- Counts the actual average weekly cost of the 2,000+ items needed to enable a socially acceptable minimum standard
- Evidence based benchmark of what is required to enable people to live with dignity, at a minimum but acceptable level

Minimum Food Costs 2020

Food is amongst the largest areas of MESL expenditure for all household types examined.

Food basket cost varies with household composition.

- Food costs rise as children grow older
- Working-age single adult has lowest costs

Cost of the minimum food basket represents a significant proportion of household income

Trends in findings

OLDER CHILD

Child food costs highest for this age-group

44% higher than primary school age

SOCIAL ASPECTS

Social aspects of food are important for all household types, especially the case for single individual household type

RURAL

The minimum food basket costs more in a rural area

TRADE OFFS

Inadequate income, below the MESL threshold, means households must choose which essentials to go without.
